

The Challenge

Lane Valente Industries provides construction services for store-within-a-store projects for the largest U.S. retailer. To fulfill on this, they leveraged many different haulers across the country.

With 8-10 new projects per week, finding new hauling partners, organizing dumpster deliveries and pickups, and keeping track of all the rented containers was very inefficient and time-consuming.

The Solution

In 2017, Lane Valente Industries switched from working with multiple haulers to one partner: Dumpsters.com. Since then, they've benefitted from many services including:

Dependable, prompt and high-quality service in 225 locations across 50 states.

One dedicated account manager who coordinates orders and provides tailored service for their projects nationwide.

Single, consistent billing for all these jobs.

The Results

When Lane Valente Industries switched to one vendor for all their dumpster rental needs, they stopped wasting time. They no longer have to manage relationships with multiple haulers or keep track of hundreds of containers across the country all at once. Now, they work with one partner that efficiently manages all their dumpster deliveries, swap-outs and pickups.
